

Richard Aubut brings more than 30 years of experience in the making of guitars by hand.

As the sound quality of the guitar is directly influenced by the wood chosen, each piece of wood is carefully selected for its grain, dryness, quality and its essence. Richard imports the best quality wood from India, Honduras, Africa and Canada.

The essence of the wood, its thickness, size of the guitar and its internal bracing are key factors that influence the quality of the sound. An experienced luthier like Richard will have to balance these factors to achieve the best sound quality of the guitar, and tailor the sound and feel to his client's tastes.
